FOREWORD

THE BRONCO marks the beginning of a new era in the history of Fayetteville State Teachers College. The class of '47 is the first Four-Year College Class to undertake the publication of an Annual. The members of this class sincerely hope that through this edition the ideals received at F.S.T.C. will be perpetuated and hence serve as a stimulus and guide in future years.

The staff is particularly grateful to the Administration, Faculty, and Student Body for their interest and coöperation in helping make this publication possible. The class is naming this yearbook THE BRONCO in honor of our highly esteemed basketball and football teams, known as the F.S.T.C. Broncos and Broncorettes.

Of course the members of the staff admit that they are poineers in the field of publication but trust that through these efforts others will be inspired to attain greater heights.

As you turn these pages may you catch the spirit that we have tried to portray.

THE EDITOR.

HISTORICAL STATEMENT

Fayetteville State Teachers College is the oldest institution of its kind in the state, but for its origin we must go back to the year of 1867. At this time seven local Negroes purchased a lot, at the cost of $140, on Gillespie Street and constituted themselves a self-perpetuating board of trustees to maintain this property permanently as a site for the education of the colored children of Fayetteville. On this lot a building was erected by General O. O. Howard of the Freedman's Bureau, and the institution thus established became known as the Howard School. Incidentally this institution marked the beginning of public education for both white and colored children in North Carolina.

Robert Harris was the school's first principal and under his leadership the Howard School attracted state-wide attention. The superintendent of public instruction in his annual report for 1869 refers to the Howard School as "the best in the state for colored children."

In the meantime the North Carolina Legislature had instituted provisions for the training of both white and Negro teachers. A summer normal school was begun for whites at the University of North Carolina, and the Howard School was chosen as the normal school for Negroes, being officially designated as such and renamed the State Colored Normal School by a Legislative Act of 1877. Robert Harris was retained as principal and his staff consisted of two assistants. The normal school classes were conducted in the three second story rooms of the building with the lower floor reserved for the primary grades.

Three years after the establishment of the Normal School Mr. Harris died, and Charles W. Chestnut, a well known writer of fiction, and in whose honor our library is named, was chosen to succeed him. Three years later (1883) Mr. Chestnut resigned to devote his time to his books and to practice law. Ezekiel Ezra Smith, who though still a young man of 31 years, had been for five years the principal of a school in Goldsboro, was chosen to succeed Mr. Chestnut as head of the State Normal School at Fayetteville. Thus began Mr. Smith's connection with the institution which lasted for a period of nearly fifty years.

Under the long administration of Dr. Smith the State Normal School made steady progress. Dr. Smith saw very early that the growth and expansion of this institution was inevitable. He knew also that the institution could not grow as it should unless it were located on a site that would allow easy expansion. For several years he worked to secure a suitable location.

After twenty-five years in the Gillespie Street Building the school was moved to Ashley Heights, a mile west of its first home, and after four years there returned to the city and was located in a rented hall on Worth Street. With money available from the Legislature for a building, but no site on which to build, there was some talk of removing the Normal School to another city. It was at this time when the present site of the school was purchased. This site, located on the Murchison Road and comprising fifty acres of land, was purchased largely through the personal generosity of Dr. Smith with the assistance of T. W. Thurston, prominent Negro superintendent of a local silk mill.

Aycock Hall, completed in 1908, was the first building to be erected on the new site. Two years later Vance Hall was erected. The physical plant of the institution has steadily expanded until now it consists of fourteen brick buildings and several cottages and other frame structures.

Dr. Smith resigned the presidency in July 1933, became President Emeritus, and was succeeded by James W. Seabrook. Under the administration of President Seabrook the institution has continued to progress. On March 23, 1939, the State Legislature voted to change the name of the State Normal School to the Fayetteville State Teachers College and thereby officially raising the status of the institution to a full four year teachers college.

DEDICATION

LEONARD H. ROBINSON

In recognition of his inspiring personality and his unceasing efforts in helping the class of '47 carry out their many assigned tasks during the past four years, and his advice which greatly assisted us in the preparation of this publication, the staff greatly dedicates the 1947 edition of THE BRONCO to PROFESSOR LEONARD H. ROBINSON.

In Memoriam

EZEKIAL EZRA SMITH MEMORIAL

This monument was erected in memory of Dr. Ezekiel Ezra Smith, president of the Fayetteville State Normal School for nearly fifty years (1883-1933). Dr. Smith was largely responsible for the rapid growth and expansion of the institution. An indefatigable worker and an invincible Christian gentleman, he left within the walls of this institution a storehouse of inspiration from which each successive generation of students have drawn. The monument is inscribed thus:

E. E. SMITH

EDUCATOR

CLERGYMAN

APOSTLE OF INTERRACIAL GOOD WILL

OLD WHITE AND BLUE

Our colors so true, oh hail white and blue

To thee our voices ring,

Tho' seasons may roll, and changes unfold

Thy praise we'll ever sing.

All honor and love and loyalty

We pledge from hearts anew,

Our Alma Mater, F.T.C.

We hail thee, old white and blue!

We cherish each hall, each time-honored wall

Each bending tree and bower.

Tho' far we may roam, thy spirit leads on

To victory and power

With courage and might and majesty

March on old colors true

Our Alma Mater, F.T.C.,

We'll stand by old WHITE AND BLUE!

ADMINISTRATION

PRESIDENT JAMES W. SEABROOK

A.B., Ped.D., Johnson C. Smith University; A.M., Columbia University; further study: Columbia University, University of Chicago, New York University.

Congratulations to the Class of 1947 for the vision and courage manifested in projecting and consummating the publishing of this Yearbook.

In this brave new world which we hope is coming into being our first thought is one of gratitude to Divine Providence for having vouchsafed the return without a major casualty of all our splendid young men who in World War II answered our Country's call.

Our second thought is one of justifiable pride in the fine way in which our veteran students are helping to steer the institution along the path of progress.

Our third thought is one of hope, a hope that Fayetteville State Teachers College through an awakened student body and a strengthened and devoted faculty will contribute not only to the development of the Negro race and to the growth of North Carolina but also to the preservation and the ennobling of the American Spirit. This can be accomplished only by sending out from this and from similar institutions teachers who, while building sectional pride and national patriotism on the one hand, will tear down with the other hand the barriers of prejudice, hate and bigotry which divide and antagonize peoples and nations.

In this atomic age now upon us may we all be imbued with the spirit of Scotland's greatest poet when he wrote:

For a' that an a' that
It's coming yet for a' that
That man to man the world o'er
Shall brothers be for a' that.

Although Mr. Jones is usually seen in a big hurry, he always carries a cheerful smile for everyone who comes in contact with him. He is probably the busiest man on the campus, but in spite of his Big Job Mr. Jones always finds the time to see a student who is in need of his help, a thing which we would say occurs quite frequently. The efficiency which he exhibits in handling the big task is deserving of much praise.

THE BATTLE OF EDUCATION

Dedicated to the Class of '47

By HUGO MURCHISON

We've ascended many a mountain top
To reach the goal we had sought
We've crossed many a desert plain
By means which God has wrought

We've witnessed many a sleepless night
And dreaded the thought of dawn
We've met our obstacles with new hope
With the courage to carry on.

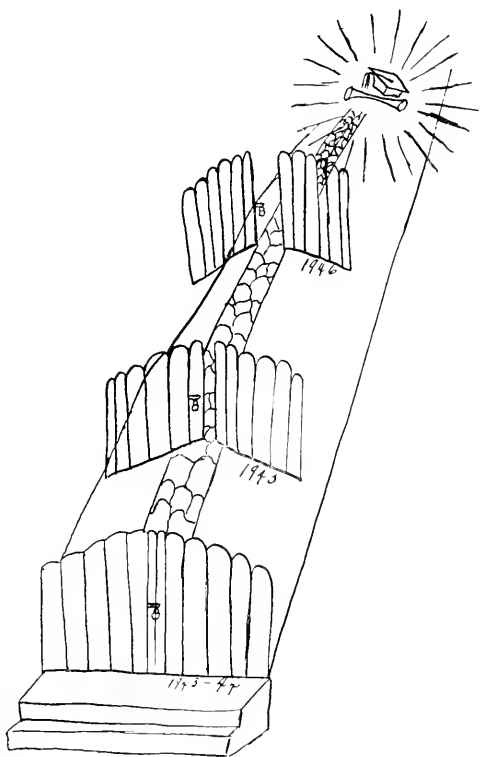

We've gained in every conflict
Our spirit ever bright
Taking advantage of every opportunity
By having the courage to fight.

We are gathered here together
To be rewarded for our deeds
Then out into the world we go
To serve our Country's needs.

We are greatly indebted to those
Who placed in us their trust
With confidence that we would fight
And continue to fight, we must.

The battle is merely started
The fighting has just begun
Think not of rest my comrades
Until this job is done.

We will set another goal in life
And march on as before
To enrichen the lives of those who follow
Making room at the top for more.

ACTIVITIES

The classes of Fayetteville State Teachers College are appreciative of the well-rounded program practiced here. The student at F.S.T.C. is exposed not only to books and lectures, but to various extra-curricular activities which prove to be quite beneficial. Campus activities are well planned and regulated. We are proud of the fact that when we have finished our courses here we have a broader outlook and a keen insight of the affairs of the world of which we are to become an integral part.

EVENTS OF THE CHOIR

The College Choir had the distinct honor of being invited to sing before both Houses of the General Assembly in Raleigh a little over three years ago, and was most enthusiastically received. During the past three years the choir has made many friends for the school, both white and colored. The USO's Service clubs, and Hospitals at Fort Bragg have called on the choir constantly. Many people have enjoyed the broadcasts given over the local station and from WPTF in Raleigh. For the first time the choir was invited to sing for the Kiwanis Club and to appear at Fayetteville High School. The choir has appeared at Bennett College, Atlantic Christian College, Shaw University, A.&T. College, Elizabeth State Teachers College and Hampton Institute. At Hampton Institute our choir sang for the morning services in the historical church in which no other choir has ever sung except the Hampton Choir.

This term our choir has been invited to exchange choirs with Hampton Institute. Other places that the choir has appeared and will have appeared are St. Pauls, Monroe, Sanford, Mt. Olive, Wilmington and many other places. This term our choir was the first college choir to be invited to broadcast for the Interracial Commission from station WPTF in Raleigh. Within the choir there are four groups: the large mixed group, the female ensemble, the male ensemble, and the female choir.

The first veterans returned to the institution during the 1945-46 school year. Veterans have brought with them varied experiences from the countries of Europe, Asia, South America, the South Sea Islands and many other places on the Globe. These experiences are shared with the faculty members and with other students, and serve as a stimulus to increase the scholastic rating of all students.

Enrollment of veterans has steadily increased until now the list stands at seventy. We are looking forward to more "vets" for the ensuing years.

RESUME OF SEASON

Spectators saw in action this year one of the best teams ever to represent Fayetteville State Teachers College on the gridiron. During the "Broncos" ten game schedule of the regular season they won seven games amassing a total of 100 points against the opponents total of 62.

Without a doubt the most exciting game of the season was the initial game with the "Bears" of Shaw University in which the "Broncos" were bested by a score of 25-0. This game will probably be remembered by spectators as a "thriller." To quote the words of one sports writer as proof—"Although the score itself was decisive enough, it in no way indicated the closeness of the game and the calibre of football the 'Broncos' played." With most of the first half being played inside of Shaw's 30 yard line, the "Bears" finally took advantage of the breaks in the game to score three touchdowns in the last quarter.

In the next game of the season the "Broncos" outplayed and out distanced a team composed of 555th Paratroopers only to lose by a score of 6-0.

The next five games showed the "Broncos" coming to life, winning all with an aggregate total of 59 points to the opponents score of 6. The lone 6 points were registered by Princess Ann College of Maryland. The victims of the Fayetteville might were Livingstone, St. Paul (Va.), Princess Ann, Norfolk Division of Virginia State College, and St. Augustine College respectively.

The winning streak was broken by the inspired "Pirates" of Elizabeth City State Teachers College who upset the "Broncos" by a score of 25-7, with the "Broncos" bringing up eleven first downs to the "Pirates" four and gaining 186 yards rushing to the "Pirates" 6. The breaks seemed to be all Elizabeth City's and they took advantage of the "Broncos" fumbles and intercepted passes to score four touchdowns in the last quarter.

During the next week the team traveled to Pennsylvania to get revenge at the expense of a hard playing and confident Cheyney State Teachers College eleven. This marked the first time the "Broncos" had traveled this far North for a football game. The game Cheyney State eleven bowed to the "Broncos" to the tune of 14-6, but not before they had proved themselves worthy opponents.

The next and final game saw the "Broncos" in action on their home ground. This also marked the final appearance "Gus" Printz, "Red Hunter," and "Papoose" LaBroi, all members of the Class of '47. These men also shared the honor of being team Captains throughout the year. All were veterans of World War II and members of the teams of '39, '40, and '41. With only the three above mentioned regulars missing from the line up for next year, "State" promises to have a better season.

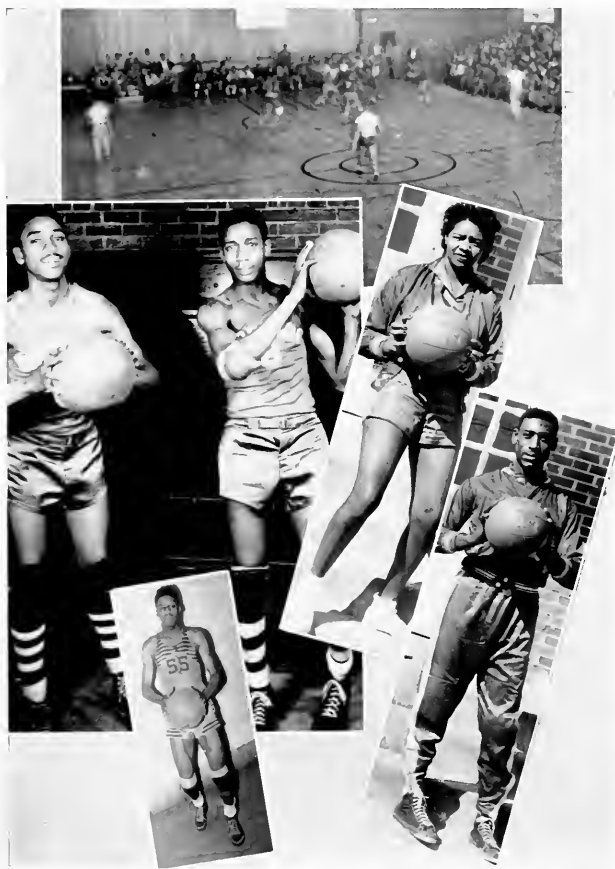

Honorable mention goes to back field men Hunter, Spruill and Harrison for the brilliant running and field generalship and to linemen Printz, Mumford, McAllister, Cushinberry and LaBroi for their consistency. Finally, honors go to the starting line up of the '46 "Broncos":

Randolph Worsley, Left End
Harold Cushinberry, Left Guard
Howard McAllister, Center
James LaBroi (Co-Capt.), Right Guard

The team won seventeen games and lost five for a season's average of .773. They won thirteen consecutive games before being defeated by the "Bears" of Shaw University. Phillip "Slim" Parker of Beaufort, N. C., the team's high scorer for the season, amassed a total of 322 points for an average of 18.9 points per game. The 1946-47 "Broncos" lay claim to the title of State Champions.

Harrison, Worsley, R. Simmons and Carter were standouts on a team that can easily be classed as the best to ever grace the courts of F.S.T.C.

Hats off to the "Broncoettes"! Thrills have been yours thanks to the fast moving forwards and agile guards. Accuracy, speed, adaptness, and sportsmanship are characteristics of the team which proudly wears the blue. The game with Shaw University saw four players in the white and blue for the last time. Honors to Lucy Brown, Elaine Clark, Terry Johnson, and Lottie Russ who played excellent games throughout the season. Lucy Brown was the high scorer of the season with a total of 153 points; Sanford trailed her closely with 141 points. Amelia Sanford, Ruth Hassell, Minnie Jarmon and Azzie Beatty have done a masterful job on the court this year.

SENIOR CLASS HISTORY

Doubtless the greatest class that ever entered the "halls and time honored walls" of Fayetteville State Teachers College is the Class of '47. If facts fail to sustain this statement from a numerical point of view, they doubly support it when one considers the rich profusion of talent, ability, and versatility of the class in general.

When school opened in September 1943 one hundred and thirty-five determined students gathered to make up the Freshman Class. Very soon we showed our ambition and courage, for we practically took over the offices of extra-Curricular Activities. We were able to show our many and varied talents through participation in Talent Night. We also entertained the WAC's. The stars in "Our Town" (play given by Drama Guild) came from our class. We displayed our talents further in composing and producing an original skit—"Swing School." To do its bit towards victory our class contributed seventy-five dollars in War Bonds to the school as a gift.

Dr. Charlotte H. Brown, founder of the Palmer Memorial Institute, Sedalia, N. C., was favorably impressed with the high intellectual level of the class and adopted us as her class.

After a year of hard work the class entertained itself with a formal dance which set the pattern for all dances that followed. This is just the beginning but surely indicative of the end, for we were destined to march off with the highest honors. At the end of our first year six prizes were awarded members of the Class of '47 for excellence in scholastic ability. A member of this class was the first recipient of the Alpha Kappa Mu Scholarship.

Having completed one year of experience and orientation we passed into the calm dignity and cool reflection which characterized our Sophomore year. Here we began to realize how little we knew and how great were the tasks facing us. We became more serious-minded and settled down to real work. Again the stars of the season's attraction, "Stage Door," came from our class, and members of the Class of '47 initiated and drew up plans for "Freshmen Orientation Week."

Our third year began with many of us carrying out the plans made for "Freshmen Orientation Week." A trip to Raleigh to hear Dorothy Maynor was arranged. Some of us found places in Music and Christian Work, while others proved their worth in Athletics and other activities.

As each year passed we seemed to realize more and more the responsibilities placed upon us. Time and space will not allow us to tell our glorious achievements as a class, to say nothing of our individual achievements. At present we stand eighty-five strong, some started this number and others have joined us in the four years. The return of our veterans during the school year 1945-46 greatly enhanced the achievements and progress of this class.

We can truly say with joyful hearts that our college career has been a glorious one—flavored with memories sweet and motivating—ones that we shall never forget.

PAULINE ADAMS.
ELAINE CLARK.

CLASS PROPHECY

Through some complex process we are projected to the Grand Old Year of 1957, where we find the whole scientific world disturbed over a most remarkable device invented by Julius C. Morgan, who graduated with the Class of '47 at Fayetteville State Teachers College. It is the greatest invention since the Atomic Bomb. I sought out the inventor and together we decided to adjust the apparatus and visit our beloved classmates of long ago.

The first picture showed a neat little cottage where Miss Kattie Bass, now Mrs. William Johnson, is preparing a nice dinner for her husband. A similar scene was shown as we peeped in on Atha Lennon, Mary Beatrice Wilson, Tressie Allen, Catherine Bullock, Madelyn Downey and Sadie Rountree. These "Misses" are now "Mrs." and are greatly pleased with the growth of their families and their husbands' incomes.

Now the scene changes to Broadway. There we see Stina McKnight playing and singing in Carnegie Hall. Wondering what had happened to Hilliard T. Moore, we shifted the machine to Newark, N. J., and there we found him lecturing to his student body and still saying "in the first beginning." He is now principal of Newark's finest High School. We left New Jersey and went to New York City to visit Joseph Dunn. He is dining in the Hotel Theresa and telling his friends that he has "just six more weeks" to complete requirements for his Master's Degree.

As we continued to gaze into this startling device we observed such scenes as these:

Esther Romaine Clark running for President of the United States.

Elease David directing the Dramatic Club in a High School in Cheraw, S. C., and rehearsing the play "Daniel Webster"—the same play that she rehearsed while in college.

Martha Sellers just getting off a train at the Cheraw station from New York City. She is dressed to "kill" and is down "just for a short visit."

Helen Baird leaving her primary children at the end of a day's work and heading straight for a candy shop to purchase a stick of chewing gum.

Wilbur L. Hunter, James LaBroi, Augustus Printz and Houston Evans coaching athletic teams in some of our outstanding colleges. Each has his Master's Degree in Physical Education.

Robert Campbell walking down Hay Street in Fayetteville, North Carolina with a raincoat under his arm, and even though he now holds a degree in astronomy he is still "wondering if it is going to rain today."

John D. McAllister, having received his Doctor's Degree, is holding a position as head of the Department of Education at Fayetteville State Teachers College.

He and his family are living in one of the newly built brick cottages on the campus.

Madelyn Downey, Janie and Mary Hargroves and Geraldine Hall still teaching at the Mary Potter High School in Oxford, N. C. All have assumed the "Mrs." title.

Rosa Dean and Bernice Hawkins running a coöperative Grocery Store in Maxton, North Carolina.

Daisy Haynes teaching in Whiteville, N. C.

Mary A. Huggins with further study above her Master's Degree and filling a position as Principal of the Williston High School in Wilmington, North Carolina. (She still must have her rice and chile sauce.)

Hilda Harrell, National Director of the Y.W.C.A.

Pearlie James running the Club "Society" in Lillington, N. C.

Otha Jones heading the Department of Social Studies at Elizabeth City Teachers College.

Wilhelmina Johnson and Carlester Clark holding their rural positions from Enfield, N. C.

Gertha Kelly, a great pianist in her home town of Jonesboro, N. C.

Dorothy Anderson, supervisor of public schools in Nash County.

Lucy Brown coaching basketball at North Carolina College in Durham, North Carolina.

Annie Pearl Barden, Director of Sunday school in her own church at Wallace, N. C.

Elaine Clark now "Dr. Clark," president of the Palmer Memorial Institute, Sedalia, N. C., having succeeded the sainted Dr. Charlotte Hawkins Brown, from Enfield, N. C.

Coleen Hill, Associate Professor of Art at the Lee County Training School in Sanford, N. C. (She makes all dances.)

Mattie R. Hart, teaching in Elm City.

Leroy Lawrence, operating a strawberry farm near Chadbourn, N. C., and teaching on the side.

Terry Johnson, coaching the Girls' Basketball team in Kinston, N. C.

Horace Nichols and Wilbur L. Baker, publishing the Wilberforce Herald, in Wilberforce, Ohio. Nichols is conducting a downtown class in tap dancing and Baker is the Professor of Romance Languages at the University.

Pauline Adams, doing social work in Washington, D. C., and teaching English at Howard University.

Hazel Herring, head of primary department of the school in Clinton, North Carolina.

Martha Debnam and Helen Davis, running a "College Center" in Durham, North Carolina.

JELEN D. DAVIS.

LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT

WE, THE SENIORS of Fayetteville State Teachers College, being of more or less sound minds and bodies (thanks to Nurse Milberrie), do in the year of nineteen hundred and forty-seven hereby dedicate, bestow, bequeath, will, transmit or just give away (Ed. note—anyone can see they are of little or no value) to the following members of our most honored faculty and student body these possessions.

ARTICLE I

To our dear Alma Mater we leave our loyalty and love.

ARTICLE II

To President Seabrook we leave an Ocean of thanks for his fatherly protection over us during the past four years.

ARTICLE III

To the Junior Class we leave the ability to publish a second edition of THE BRONCO. We also leave them the ability to make many lesson plans, attend many conferences, and write many "observations." And of course we are forced to leave them all of the burdens and troubles of the Newbold children and teachers which we know they will enjoy.

To the Sophomore Class, our sister class, we leave the ability to fight for more privileges and a Student Council.

To the Freshman Class we leave the ability to work hard for another three years.

ARTICLE IV

To Mr. Parker, our English instructor, we leave the ability to give easier assignments so that lights will not have to burn all night.

To Mr. Robinson, class adviser, we leave the ability to advise our sister class, causing them to steer an even more successful course than we.

To Miss Turner, Drama Guild Director, we leave more success for her plays. (Ed. note—she may call the men "little men" and leave "little lady" alone for a while.)

To Miss Travis, English Instructor, we leave the names of more reference books for her classes.

To Miss Murphy we leave some more "Y" members to fill the places of those we are taking. We leave also the "Y" Canteen.

ARTICLE V

The following individuals leave these traits and abilities to lower classmen so that they may follow in the footsteps of their predecessors:

Martha Debnam leaves her brown checkered valise to Jake Overby for his many jaunts to Durham.

Pauline Adams wills her responsible position in the Y.W.C.A., her love for cashew nuts and the better things of life, and her sincere smile to her sister, Velma.

Christine Brown bequeaths her prize possession, John Clapp, to Cora Dawas, and her soprano voice to Ophelia Hooker.

Mary Lee Hargrove wills her contagious smile, keen sense of humor and appropo use of sarcasm to Evelyn Nelson.

Elease David leaves her position in the Service Club to Georgeva Gerald, and her ability to wear draped clothes to Ella Milkins. To anyone who might find it useful, Elease leaves her knack for getting along with people.

Stina McKnight leaves her musical ability to Bernice Rumph.

Mary Hoskins wills her ability to laugh to Bynum Vann.

Tressie Allen leaves her ability to eat and gain weight to Warren G. McCallum, and her efficiency in mathematics to Russell Parker.

To the president of the Y.W.C.A., Elaine Clark leaves her executive ability, her positions in Alpha Kappa Mu and the Varsity Club, and to Julia Judah, her basketball plays.

To Eunice Wilson, Wilhelmina (genus) Johnson leaves her cherry "hullo everybody" with sincere hope that she'll use it often.

Rosa Dean wills her ideas of becoming coiffures and her graceful body movements to Mermestine McLaughlin.

To Martha Brooks, Cunie Satterfield leaves her philosophy notebook and Miss Summerville as critic teacher.

To Cora Hicks, Ozelia Baird wills her profound interest in "Bill" Weaver, hoping that she will hold onto the gentlemen in question. Ozelia leaves her seat in the choir to Sarah Jane McNeil.

Cornell Faulkner wills her height to "Miss Home-Coming" of 1946 and her pleasing personality to some maladjusted Junior.

Bernice Hawkins wills an interesting young man to M. M., hoping that she takes due and wise advantage of said opportunity. Her love she leaves to Henry Armistead.

To Velma Dunn, Sue Nelson leaves her sense of humor, and to Fannie Blue, her 18 inch waistline.

Leontine McDowell leaves her "interest in New Jersey" to M. R., and her calmness to Aaron Swindell.

To Ruth Hassell, Carlester Clark leaves her timidity, and her neatness to some deserving individual. Carlester leaves Boone to Margaret Streeter.

Annie P. Barden leaves her studiousness and wise use of time to Cattie McLaughlin in addition to her philosophy notebook.

To Molly Boone, Hilda Harrell leaves her efficiency as a community worker and student. Hilda leaves her mature attitude to a needy person.

Bessie Gainey bequeaths her petite stature to anyone who is more than 5 feet 2 inches. Her place in the Service Club goes to Willie Ridick.

Christine Hicks leaves her last Master teacher to Sarah McCoy, and her becoming coiffure to anyone with an oval face and pleasant countenance.

To some unhappy person, Lillie Newkirk leaves her warm smile and her ability to get along with people.

Daisy Haynes leaves her Master teacher, Miss Williams, to the most shiftless person in the junior class, and her well cared-for hands to anyone who plans to sit in the wishing well next spring.

Hazel Herring wills her amiable disposition to Lillie Q. Smith along with first critic teacher, Miss C. M. Smith.

To Mary Williams, Romaine Hagan bequeaths her part of the solo, "Going To Journey Away" and, to Katherine Gilchrist, her seat in Dean MacRae's class.

Mattie Hart leaves her job at the College Center to anyone who wishes it, and her sincere smile to some cantankerous being.

Atha Lennon leaves her hearty laugh and "Pennsylvania Pride" to Olivia Umstead.

Lucy Brown leaves her ability to play basketball to Christine Newsome, and her pleasing personality to Helen Mills.

Juanita Blue leaves her analyzing personality to anyone who takes life minus the salt.

Nina Brown leaves her Master teacher, Miss Callender, along with Miss McIver's problem children to Eunice Wilson.

Maggie Williams leaves her erect posture to some of Mrs. Young's problem children, and her critic teacher, Mrs. Coley, to Georgeva Gerald.

Tressie Sellers wills her artistic ability to anyone of Miss Eaton's students, and her sincerity of purpose to Benny Frye.

Cornelia Stevenson bequeaths her sincere wishes for the fulfillment of Olivia Umstead's "wishing well" wishes—i.e., that sitting in the well each day after lunch will earn for her a B.S. Degree.

Dorothy Boykins bequeaths her ability to philosophize to Thomas Pipkin, and her scholastic rating to someone who has 3 quality points after two years of work.

Catherine Bullock leaves her erect posture to Christine Taylor with the knowledge that her spine will welcome the change.

Mary B. Wilson wills her ability to find books on the open shelves of the library to Esther Simmons, and her sanguine temperament to anyone who angers and becomes excited easily.

Elsie Clemmons leaves place on the Dean's List to any five-year freshman, her ready laugh to Henry Mott, and her many male admirers to any girl who is becoming sour because of the absence of the male factor in her life.

Sadie Davis leaves behind for Fannie Blue her weight of 130 lbs., and her problem children at Newbold to Wilhelmina Harrell.

James C. LaBroi bequeaths his exceptional athletic ability to "Jimmie" Battle, hoping that he will use it so that F.S.T.C. may maintain its high athletic standing.

To Charles Raper, Horace Nichols leaves his ability as Photography Editor.

Wilbur L. Hunter leaves his fine personality and ability to play football to John Clapp.

Wilbur L. Baker leaves his ability as Business Manager to Maurice Hayes.

John D. McAllister leaves his ability as Editor-in-Chief and all other abilities, along with his grade in Dean MacRae's class to Frank Weaver.

Emma Wayne leaves pleasant countenance and unruffled temper to Fannie Blue who is always jokingly fuming.

Helen Davis leaves her vivacious personality along with her grade in practice teaching to Helen Brown. She bequeaths her abilities express herself vividly and to stand up for her rights as far as the male admirers are concerned to any girl who needs them.

Julia Neal wills her shapely legs to Ruby Brown; her artistic ability to Roscoe Batts.

Martha Sellers wills her ability to adjust herself to all kinds of people to Edna Barnes.

Janie Hargrove leaves her mature judgment and even temper to Annie Bethea.

Geraldine Hall leaves her willingness to pay debts to "Jimmie" Battle.

Katie L. Bass wills her artistic ability to Mildred Reid.

BUILDERS DREAMS

VISIONS created by the imagination precede the achievement of any really great accomplishment. The ability to weave the threads of imagination into the finished fabric is equally important.

It has been the privilege of the EDWARDS & BROUGHTON COMPANY to cooperate with the staff in creating their vision into material form.

Such cooperation is one of the "visions" which precede the building of a successful business, and is a part of the working policy of the EDWARDS & BROUGHTON COMPANY.

To those Staffs desiring complete cooperation, we offer unexcelled service. You, too, may be proud of your annual.

Correspondence is invited
